THE
GOLDEN GATE

AND
ITS DESIGNER
JOSEPH B. STRAUSS

Joseph B. Strauss, Crusader—An Appreciation

By Alfred K. Nippert, Ohio E '94

JOSEPH B. STRAUSS, Ohio E '92, startled Cincinnati and the faculty of its University when, forty-five years ago, as a member of the U.C. graduating class of 1892, he proposed, in his graduation thesis, a plan to build a bridge across the Bering Straits and thus connect the North American continent with Asia. I recall distinctly the graduation exercises at the old Pike Opera House on Fourth Street (since destroyed by fire) when, before a crowded house, a bewildered faculty and distinguished group of visitors and speakers, this modest, soft-spoken young graduate unfolded his Utopian dream of the Gargantuan bridge which, he explained, could be built to unite two great continents. It seemed an impossible and preposterous scheme which this young engineering graduate presented so seriously to his astounded listeners. Since then many men of distinction in science, politics and military affairs have referred to the bridging of the Bering Straits as a world-startling possibility of the future—but certainly the distinction of being the original "Bering Straiter" cannot be taken away from "Joe" Strauss.

"Joe" is and always has been a dreamer, with the idealistic tendencies of a poet. Engineer and poet is an unusual combination, yet he proved his poetical talents to be of no mean calibre when, as class poet of the class of '92, he presented his "Reveries," which, in spiritual depth and poetic qualities, has not been equalled by any class at old U.C. in '90 these many years. The following two verses, picked at random out of the twenty-one constituting the class poem, will demonstrate Joe's ability as a worthy rider of Pegasus:

*The moon, companion to nocturnal thought,
Pours out her light of mirrored sunbeams wrought;*

*Maternal spreads her robes of mellow white
Far over lowland plain and rugged height;
Dims, by her nearer splendor, yonder host,
Whose multicolored orbs do seem almost Like flick'ring beacon lamps, that silent burn*

On distant shores, round which they bend and turn

*In straggling lines of warning light,
That flash their signals through the night.*

*Among those myriad millions hung in space,
Finds, too, this tiny world of ours a place;*

*From it, tonight, how small a part I see
Of its known stellar fellowship; to me
They bring the consciousness of those unknown,
Whose light our skies can never hope to own;
Whose course is laid where eye nor mind can reach;
Where trains of regal courtiers follow each,
In systems vast, with centers yet
Far deeper in creation set.*

Small of stature, great of mind, he was a leader of men—a miniature Napoleon (tho not a bloody one)—on his college campus, indefatigable as a student of engineering under two great teachers, Thomas Eddy and Ward Baldwin, super-active as an organizer of student activities, a dreamer of dreams like his namesake among the hills of Judea, he never lost sight of his objectives in life. He combined the ultra-practical materialistic attitude of a bridge engineer with the altruistic idealism of a lover of man who believed in the brotherhood of the human race and in the betterment of its social conditions. He believed in the parable of the Good Samaritan and traveled the road from Jerusalem to Jericho in the service of man a thousand times.

As early as 1889 he became interested in the establishment of Sigma Alpha Epsilon on the Cincinnati campus and founded the Ohio Epsilon chapter as representing the second great national Greek-letter fraternity at U.C.—a chapter that has furnished, in the forty-eight years of its brilliant existence, many outstanding business, industrial and professional leaders throughout the nation. From its ranks have sprung an unusually large group of loyal members, for among the alumni of Ohio Epsilon we find twenty Life Memberships of $50 and ten Founder Memberships in The Levere Memorial Foundation of $1,000 each. Joe Strauss was the first to become a member of the Foundation out of the chapter which he founded in 1889.

Had he suggested, on the night of his graduation, the building of a bridge across the treacherous swirling rip-tides of the Golden Gate, instead of the Bering Straits, his audience would have been equally bewildered and his professors would have smiled as blandly at Joe the dreamer. The absurdity, the impossibility, the abnormality of such a scheme was too incongruous to contemplate at that time and yet, within a few weeks the Golden Gate bridge of Joseph Strauss will be opened to the American people as the last connecting link of the great highway between Northern and Southern California—a monument to the perseverance and outstanding ability of its creator.

I would not dare to attempt to relate the Herculean efforts necessary successfully to overcome all the obstacles—political, financial and technical. No one knows what the past fifteen years of unceasing work and heart-breaking struggles have been, save Joe himself. A giant in strength of soul, restless in his energy to attain the goal of his dreams, he stands today a peer among the great engineers of the world's greatest structures.

When the Governor of the State of California formally accepts the seven-mile long bridge from the hand of its modest engineer, he will be able to tell the world that this tremendous bridge was erected below and above the swirling tides of the Pacific—a record in the annals of engineering. When John August Roebling, in 1845, built the two great stone piers for the first suspension bridge in America, which eventually, December 1, 1866, united Ohio and Kentucky by two wire spans across the Ohio River at Cincinnati, little Joe Strauss was not yet born, but in later years the sight of that early structure must have unconsciously created within the boy the first impulses which have now met their realization at San Francisco. As a child he saw the Cincinnati Suspension Bridge day by day—he could vision it from his desk at old Hughes

High School on East Fifth Street, he could see it as he played near his ancestral home on Mound Street, and his eyes would seek the stately towers and graceful wire bows as he gazed from old McMicken College southward toward the Kentucky hills. It is a far cry from the banks of the Ohio to San Francisco Bay and almost a half century has elapsed for Joe's dream to come true, and that which men of his college days said "can't be done" is today an actuality. Human progress always has been along the lines of the impossible and lives of today are surrounded by the realization of the impossibility of yesterday. This is true of the physical as well as the spiritual progress of the human race.

Some man, that good old Joe of Ohio Epsilon '92!

Consultant at Los Angeles

While still engaged in supervising the finishing stages of the construction of the Golden Gate bridge, Mr. Strauss has been called upon to act as consultant for a group of business and financial leaders who are trying to work out a plan to solve the traffic problem of Los Angeles. At a meeting on January 20, he outlined proposals for an ultramodern rapid transit system of either elevated streamlined railways or elevated bus lines. It is expected that he will be retained as engineer for the project when it is adopted.

Dean Teeters Nationally Famed as Toxicologist

By George K. Thompson, Jr., Iowa Beta '38

ARSENIC, strychnine, mercury, lye, laudanum, and carbolic acid are common poisons met by Wilbur J. Teeters, Ohio Σ '93, Mich. I-B '95, dean of the College of Pharmacy at the University of Iowa, in his work as unofficial state toxicologist which has brought him national fame and recognition. He has filled the post for over forty years and has had some remarkable experiences.

When asked what the most interesting case during his tenure at the university has been, Dean Teeters leans back in his swivel chair at the desk covered with papers where he does the executive work of the Pharmacy school, and looks at his interrogator through a cloud of smoke arising from his briar, and meditates. Meditation doesn't last long any more, however, as the Dean has become used to this question fired at him by reporters and writers for twenty years and more.

Idle gossips brought the most interesting case to light when they picked on a man who was "carrying on scandalously," to their way of thinking, only a short time after his wife had died. Talk finally forced the exhumation of the deceased wife and the stomach was sent to the Dean for examination for poison. Traces of mercury were found although the body had been buried for six months. The authorities moved to try the husband for murder. At this point, Dean Teeters stepped in and advised a halt until he had examined the embalming fluid used to preserve the body.

A test of the fluid revealed mercury in it and the case looked as though the husband were innocent. Once more the Dean stepped in, however, and asked that further parts of the body be sent him. With the additional tracts of the dead woman, it was ascertained that the supply of mercury in her system was three times as large as could have been derived from the embalming fluid. With this evidence, the husband was taken to trial and sent to prison for life.

The case is especially remembered by Dean Teeters because of the fact that the deceased had been buried for six months before the crime was brought to light, and because of the fact that the embalming fluid contained mercury, although there was a state law prohibiting its use in the mixture. When this fact was pointed out to the fluid manufacturer he wrote an unusually vicious letter in which he denied the presence of mercury in the mixture, and offered to give $5,000 to Dean Teeters if he could prove the presence of the poison in the preparation.

Thereupon Dean Teeters boarded the train for the address of the scurrilous manufacturer, with visions of a small fortune awaiting him. The "factory" turned out to be a frame house, while the "laboratory" was a sink and two shelves. The owner of the establishment admitted that his bluff had been called, but was unable to do anything about the $5,000.

Long years of experience have taught Dean Teeters a good deal about human beings and human nature. It is his shrewd observation that it is almost impossible to convict women poisoners if they don't take the witness stand and are fairly attractive. Most of the poisoning cases that come to him are from country areas. This is partly because doctors in less populated sections are loath to call for an autopsy because, should their suspicions prove false, their reputations in the community would be ruined.

Many samples are received at the offices of the pharmacy head monthly. Many of them are from individuals who think someone is trying to do away with them. On one occasion, a piece of pie was sent in to be analyzed. It was shown to be full of poison. The man had wondered why his previously inimical wife had suddenly baked the nice pie for him. The incident was closed for Dean Teeters when he made his report to the husband. Still another incident occurred recently when the analysis of a child's stomach showed strychnine. After making his report, the Dean heard nothing more of the case.

Through many years of experience, Dean Teeters has built up a reputation among trial lawyers of Iowa for his reliable testimony, for his willingness to testify as to the truth no matter whom it may benefit, and for his habit of not getting out on a limb, no matter how hard cross-examining lawyers try to force him out on it.

Many of the queries sent to him are humorous. People send him an empty bottle with nothing more than a smell in it and want to know what was in the bottle as well as the formula for it. One man sent a "raser" which he suspected had been loaned him by his neighbor in the hope that he would cut himself with it and die from suspected poison placed on the "raser's" edge. The "raser" had been soaked in salt water 12 hours and then in kerosene another 12. The shelves in the Teeters home and at the laboratory are clogged with such remnants of bygone cases.

Poisons are sometimes very cruel means of killing. Strychnine is possibly the worst, as it causes convulsions that kill the victim by exhaustion rather than by direct effect. Arsenic is odorless and practically tasteless, but very easily traced. The reason many poisons are not detected is because they bring about symptoms similar to those of certain diseases.

Dean Teeters has been an Σ AE for forty-five years, being initiated by Ohio Sigma at Mount Union in 1891. He received his degree in pharmacy in 1895 from the University of Michigan. While at Michigan, he served as the first archon of Province Delta.

In the year following his graduation, Dean Teeters came to Iowa, supposedly for one year, but has stayed for forty years to date. He served for years as archon of Province Zeta. When asked if he didn't practically found the Iowa Beta chapter, he replied, "I was the wet nurse." He has served as chapter adviser since its inception in 1905. Dean Teeters' interest in Σ AE has not waned in the years as they have gone by. Indeed, it has increased if anything. Iowa Beta has been fortunate in having Dean Teeters on the campus to give his time and aid to the chapter as generously as any Σ AE could possibly hope to do. Dean Teeters' name is almost legend with Iowa Beta. It will be emblazoned highest upon Minerva's escutcheon in the hearts of members of Iowa Beta chapter as long as they are members of Σ AE and appreciate true loyalty to their fraternity.

Dr. Birkhoff Heads American Scientists

By Harry S. Bunting, Tenn. Zeta '91

DR. GEORGE DAVID BIRKHOFF, III. Θ '04, Mass. Γ '05, professor of mathematics and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Harvard University, who has won many honors in the field of pure science and is considered one of the first mathematicians of the world, was elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its annual meeting in Atlantic City, N.J., December 31, 1936, thus becoming the head of the body which is the capstone of scientific organization in the United States.

When the degree of Doctor of Science was bestowed on Dr. Birkhoff by Harvard University in June, 1933, it was accompanied by the following remarkable citation:

"George David Birkhoff: First in our land among masters of mathematics, that great tool of science, greater still in the realm of pure imagination."

In addition to the honors that have been showered on him in his own country, Dr. Birkhoff has been honored with doctorates by foreign nations and is one of six Americans and one of three non-Catholics named as members of the Pontifical Academy of Science. On December 17, 1934, the academy awarded him the first prize of 10,000 lire in a mathematical competition for a paper dealing with differential equations. The award was made during exercises inaugurating the new Pontifical Hall of Science in Vatican City in which Pope Pius participated.

At the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Birkhoff presented a "new concept of the structure of the atom which promises a new vision of reality and a closer unity in man's understanding of nature." He calls his new offering a "conceptual theory of atomic theory." His paper produced a profound impression on the assembled scientists.

The election of Dr. Birkhoff to the presidency of this dean of all the learned societies is an honor to a son of Minerva in which all members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon can justly take pride and one well deserved by the recipient.

Michigan Alpha's Fiftieth Birthday

By LaVerne K. Westgate, Michigan Alpha

MICHIGAN ALPHA at Adrian College, second chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon to be established in the territory north of the Ohio river, was fifty years old January 22, 1937, and the semi-centennial anniversary was celebrated with appropriate ceremonies which brought alumni and representatives of neighboring Chapters Collegiate to Adrian Friday and Saturday, January 22 and 23.

Festivities were under way Friday night at the Adrian armory with the active chapter entertaining at a formal dance. Freddie Kaye and his orchestra furnished the music for the dance program.

Saturday noon a luncheon was held at the Hotel Lenawee at which fifty men attended. Robert C. Whitney, E.A. of Michigan Alpha, acted as toastmaster and after many songs, he introduced Otis A. Sinsel, Mich. A '02, who spoke briefly of those members who had helped the chapter in its early career and had passed on. He asked that the group stand in reverent silence in respect to those brothers.

After this fitting tribute, Ephriam R. Illenden, Mich. A '90, who was initiated the year after the founding of this chapter, told of the charter members and interesting accounts of his experiences while in the chapter. He was the oldest Σ AE present, the only living founder, William Lowrie, who is now living in Virginia, being unable to attend because of his doctor's orders.

At five o'clock in the initiation rooms of the Masonic Temple, three men were welcomed into the bonds. Many of the alumni were witnessing their first initiation since their own college days. The initiates were Robert Meyers of Adrian, Frank Seeburger of Blissfield and Edward Hosken of Detroit. Lauren Foreman, Eminent Supreme Recorder, officiated at the initiation and was assisted by the local chapter and representatives from Michigan Gamma and Michigan Iota-Beta. At 6:30, dinner was served in the temple to about 100 brothers. After the dinner, served by the mothers of the local actives and the ΔΔΔ sorority, Brother Whitney introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Dr. Harlan L. Feeman, Mich. A '00, president of Adrian College. He presented alumni brother E. P. Lake, Mich. A '11, the alumnus adviser of Michigan

Alpha, who read many letters and telegrams of congratulations from alumni unable to be present and other chapters of the Fraternity. The history of the chapter was given by Dr. H. K. Fox, Mich. A '95, dean of Adrian College.

The next speaker was of great interest not only to Michigan Alpha but to the Fraternity as well. He was Dr. James B. Wallace, Ohio Σ '87, of Saline, Mich., who was perhaps the most instrumental in the founding of Michigan Alpha. While Dr. Wallace was an active member of Ohio Sigma in 1886, his chapter received a communication from nine men at Adrian College, who were applying for a charter. He was appointed to investigate the matter and after two or three months of correspondence with the late Harry H. Cowan, Mich. A '90, he recommended the granting of the charter to the Supreme Council but, on account of his youth, was not given the honor of installing the chapter. The late John H. Focht, Ohio Σ '82, who had been prominent in national fraternity affairs was given this assignment by Eminent Supreme Archon Thomas S. Mell and he went to Adrian and initiated the charter members on January 22, 1887.

A quartet from Michigan Alpha sang two songs, "Sweetheart of ΣAE," and "Sigma Echoes," the latter written by Dr. Harlan L. Feeman.

Lauren Foreman, E.S.R., representative of the Supreme Council, told of the part that men of Michigan Alpha had played in the extension of ΣAE in the Middle West and its expansion from a small Southern fraternity to one of the recognized great nationals. Great disappointment was felt over the unavoidable absence of Archon Arthur H. Harris and other officers of Province Delta who were prevented from attending by flood conditions.

All in all the fiftieth anniversary of Michigan Alpha was celebrated with great success and the members of the chapter trust that the spirit of the occasion will long remain in the hearts of those who were present.

A Man of Rare Attainments

By William C. Haygood, Georgia Epsilon '31

DR. JOHN FRANKLIN COWAN, Mich. A '82, now at work in his San Diego home writing his autobiography, should find the self-narration of his long, varied and useful life, the most satisfying literary task he has ever set for himself. And the audience which has followed his work since the days, when as a student at Adrian College he substituted for the editor of Sunday School periodicals, will doubtless find the author's account of his career as exciting and as interesting as any of the many fictional characters into whom he breathed the breath of life.

Dr. Cowan was born at Griffinshire, N.Y., in 1854, and migrated westward to Adrian for his college and seminary training. From substitute editor to full-fledged editor of Sunday School periodicals, he entered into an active literary life, at the same time holding pastorate positions in various parts of West Virginia.

In 1898, at a Christian Endeavor

Convention held in San Francisco, he was chosen associate editor of The Christian Endeavor World, the most prominent religious magazine for young people in the country.

After ten years in this capacity,

Two Past E.A.'s of Michigan Alpha at Adrian College: John Longworth, Prominent Debater, and Edward Mack, Member of Track Squad.

Dr. Cowan's health failed him, and he went to Jamaica, where his convalescence was spent in writing a novelette, using the island as locale. In 1908 he moved to Hawaii, where for a period of ten years he served as pastor of the Union Church, Island of Kohala, and where he also published a newspaper, The Kohala Midget. San Diego, where Dr. Cowan served as Y.M.C.A. Army and Navy Secretary during the World War, has been his home since.

As officer, speaker and reporter for religious conventions, he has covered most of the available places of America and Europe. In his travels, he has been brought into contact with a fair share of the world's great. Zona Gale, Jack London, David Lloyd George, Von Hindenburg, Ramsay MacDonald and Anton Lang of Oberammergau, are but a few of the world figures whom he has come to know.

In addition to a vast amount of periodical literature, Dr. Cowan has over twelve published books in his auctorial bibliography. A daughter, Mrs. Elinore Cowan Stone of Pittsburgh, is well known for her book The Laughingest Lady.

ΣAE Takes Office as Governor of Colorado

By Dr. Harold Watson, Colorado Zeta '21

Governor Teller Ammons, Colo. Z '23, Honored by Sigma Alpha Epsilon at Dinner on Eve of His Inauguration: Henry S. Arthur, Colo. Z '23, Toastmaster; John M. Coke, Archon of Province Eta; George N. Short, Eminent Supreme Herald, Representative of Supreme Council; Frazer Arnold, Ill. Ψ-Ω '09, Principal Speaker; Governor Ammons.

WHEN Hon. Teller Ammons, Colo. Z '23, took the oath of office as Governor of Colorado on the dais of the chamber of the House of Representatives in the State Capitol at Denver, at noon, Tuesday, January 12, 1937, he was surrounded by a committee of his fraternity brothers and wore a diamond-studded Sigma Alpha Epsilon badge which had been presented to him as the gift of the National Fraternity by George N. Short, Eminent Supreme Herald, at a dinner held the previous evening in the Brown Palace Hotel, attended by 150 members of ΣAE from Denver and other cities in Colorado.

The dinner was a delightful occasion which began with the singing of "Violets" before the guests were seated. After a delicious steak dinner had been served, S. Arthur Henry, Colo. Z '23, prominent Denver attorney and Republican leader, took charge as toastmaster and kept the assembled brothers in high spirits with his jests about the Democratic party of which the new Governor is a member.

He introduced as the principal speaker of the evening Col. Frazer Arnold, Ill. Ψ-Ω '09, another Republican, who added fun by his remarks in regard to the recent campaign and paid a wonderful eulogy to ΣAE, telling of what it has meant in his life.

Governor Ammons then gave a short talk which came from his heart, telling of what his fraternity has meant to him in the years since his graduation from the University of Denver and in his rise from school days through two terms as state senator, city attorney of Denver and now as the incoming chief executive of the state.

Next on the program was Eminent Supreme Herald Short, representative of the Supreme Council, who made the pilgrimage to Denver while returning from a Supreme Council meeting in Evanston to his home in Butte, Mont. His message told of the efforts being made by the Supreme Council to guide the active chapters in maintaining the high rank of ΣAE. He won a place in the hearts of all by his genial smile and evident sincere devotion to the Fraternity.

Then came the high spot of the evening, the presentation of the diamond-jeweled badge, suitably engraved to show it as a gift to Governor Ammons from ΣAE, and with it the warm hand-clasp of friendship. In accepting, Governor Ammons expressed his appreciation of the honor shown him and pledged himself to wear the badge with equal honor to himself and the Fraternity.

The dinner was closed with a short talk by John M. Coke, archon of Province Eta, who in turn introduced the archons of the Colorado chapters.

Arrangements for the dinner were made by a committee, consisting of George L. Barkhurst, Colo. X '33; Anthony L. Mueller, Colo. Δ '36; Donald J. Gilliam, Colo. X '30; John M. Coke, Colo. Δ '28; and Dr. Harold Watson, Colo. Z '21, chairman.

■ Hon. Charles A. Plumley, Vt. A-Σ-II '96, representative at large from Vermont in the House of Representatives of the United States Congress, has been made a member of the important Appropriations committee which is a distinct recognition and advancement. To take this place he had to give up the Committee on Military Affairs of which he was a high ranking member but he remains as a member of the Committee on World War Veterans' Legislation.

■ Recently John C. Turpin, Ind. Γ '22, in charge of real estate sales for the State Life Insurance Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., and George W. Fawell, Neb. Δ-II '08, loan correspondent for the same company, promoted a dinner at the Cameo Room, Hotel Morrison, in Chicago, as hosts to 430 realtors at a sales conference. Officials of the State Life Insurance Co. as well as other officials of banks and trust companies attended.

■ Henry C. Spencer, Ia. Γ '36, is located at Bound Brook, N.J., as a student engineer for the Calco Chemical Co. He reports other Iowa Gamma alumni in that section, as follows: Robert Boyd, '32, sales engineer for the Oldbury Electro-Chemical Co.; George Steinmetz, '34, sales engineer for the Consolidated Can Co.; Howard Denler, '32, Glenn Troyak, '35, and George Lehman, '34, engineers for the General Electric Co.

Six New Founders—115 New Life Members

By George N. Short, Eminent Supreme Herald

William R. Kenan, Jr., N.C. Ξ '94, Founder of the National Endowment Fund.

SINCE November 11, 1936, when the list of new Founders and Life Members of the Chapter National of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, printed in THE RECORD for December, 1936, was made up, six additional subscriptions for Founder's memberships of $1,000 each have been received, two of them paid in full; one former subscriber has completed his payment; and 115 alumni have become Life Members by completing payment of their $50 subscriptions. This makes a total of forty Founders paid up in full; eight Founders paying in installments; and 1,323 Life Members paid in full, as of February 5, 1937.

The three new Founders are

Plans for Eighty-First Anniversary Convention

By Lauren Foreman, Eminent Supreme Recorder

PLANS for the Eighty-First Anniversary National Convention of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, to be held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, Ill., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 26-27-28, 1937, so far completed, promise one of the most constructive and enjoyable gatherings in the history of the Fraternity and it is expected that the attendance will set a new record.

The Edgewater Beach hotel is an ideal setting for a summer convention and its convenient location with respect to Evanston, site of the Levere Memorial Temple, the national shrine of ΣAE and the home of its national offices, makes it peculiarly suitable for a convocation of the sons of Minerva.

Located directly on the shores of Lake Michigan, it is a resort hotel with all necessary facilities for entertainment and diversion as well as for the comfort of its guests; yet, it is in the city limits of Chicago and about half way between the famous "Loop" district, the heart of the city's business section, and the Levere Memorial Temple in Evanston.

Sessions of the Convention at the Edgewater Beach will be held in the ball room, a beautifully decorated room with light and air on three sides, which will seat 1,000 persons. The model initiation will be held in the Michigan room, directly beneath the ball room. Ample committee rooms, conveniently located, will be provided for the meetings of the Convention committees.

The Marine dining room, facing on Lake Michigan, is one of the most attractive dining rooms to be found anywhere and is open for the service of guests at any hour of the day. For those desiring quicker and less elaborate service, the Grill will be found to fill the need with identically the same quality of food as that served in the Marine room but at popular prices. All guests of the hotel are also given the privilege of admittance to the Yacht Club, one of the most distinctive hotel rooms to be found, built to represent a ship at sea.

Despite the fact that the Convention will be held at the height of the hotel's summer season, the management of the Edgewater Beach has made the following rates for rooms: Suites of two rooms, each with twin beds, with bath between, $10.00 per day when occupied by four persons, or $2.50 per person; rooms occupied by three persons, $9.00 per day, or $3.00 per person; rooms occupied by two persons, $7.00 per day, or $3.50 per person; single rooms $5.00 per day.

The Convention will immediately follow the Third Leadership School which is to be held at Evanston, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 23-24-25, with representatives from all chapters collegiate in attendance.

The schedule of events for the Convention, as tentatively arranged, will be as follows:

Wednesday, August 25, 8:00 P.M., Buffet Supper in the Banquet Hall of the Levere Memorial Temple in Evanston.

Thursday, August 26, 10:00 A.M., First Session of the Convention, Ball Room of the Edgewater Beach Hotel; 2:00 P.M., Second Session of the Convention in Ball Room; 4:00 P.M., Model Initiation, to be conducted by members of the Supreme Council, Michigan Room of the Edgewater Beach Hotel; Evening left open for committee meetings.

Friday, August 27: 9:00 A.M., Convention Session in Ball Room of Edgewater Beach Hotel; 2:00 P.M., Convention again in session in Ball Room; 7:30 P.M., Convention Banquet in Ball Room.

Saturday, August 28: 10:00 A.M., Convention Session in Chapel of Levere Memorial Temple, Evanston, Ill.; 11:30 A.M., Pilgrimage to grave of William C. Levere in Memorial Park Cemetery, Evanston; 2:00 P.M., Final Session of Convention, Ball Room of Edgewater Beach Hotel; 9:00 P.M., Convention Ball, Ball Room of Edgewater Beach Hotel.

Special arrangements will be made for the entertainment of the ladies.

Amazing, Magnificent, Fascinating, Thrilling

By John Langdon Jones, Mass. Gamma '13

AMAZING, Magnificent, Fascinating, Thrilling:" such were the adjectives used by Lloyd George, Anatole France, Woodrow Wilson, and Sarah Bernhardt after glancing through the Book of Gold of Eric A. Dawson, Miss. Γ '08, former Eminence Supreme Recorder of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and adding their names to the list of the personalities of the period, found in this volume. An article in regard to this wonderful souvenir book has appeared in a previous issue of THE RECORD but no list has yet been given of the names that adorn its pages.

Eric Dawson began this book during the war more or less as a souvenir of the names of French soldiers who were his friends, for he was with the French Army for one year before entering the Intelligence Service of the American Expeditionary Forces. When the armistice was signed he was transferred to the American Peace Commission in Paris, where he met most of the great personalities of the Peace Conference and since then, in his travels, he has taken along his book and added names occasionally as he found them.

The book is not merely a list of autographs; it is more than that. Artists have drawn sketches, opera composers have copied arias of their famous operas, poets have written original verses (and they are the most celebrated living poets), and statesmen have written bits of philosophy. To these choice souvenirs are added all of the documents which Eric received during the war and the volume thus becomes, in a way, a sort of historical book.

This hobby has given Eric the chance to become acquainted personally with some of the most famous people of this century. Many have accorded him interviews, some have entertained him in their homes and others have asked to see him because they were amazed that any one would think up the compilation of a volume such as one finds in the Book of Gold. In 1934 on a trip to England, where he was visiting friends, he was entertained by Lady Astor, Winston Churchill, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Alfred Noyes, England's best known poet. Earlier he had had interviews with Anatole France, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, Sarah Bernhardt, Queen Marie of Roumania, the Prime Minister of Persia, Madame Emma Eames, Foch and many others. He has a letter of introduction to Mussolini and says that he intends to make use of it the next time he visits the Eternal City.

Dawson's famous Book of Gold is being displayed in several cities of his state and names are added as the owner travels from country to country. The latest addition is that of Albert Einstein. It will be interesting to note that Dawson had an interview with the late Rudyard Kipling on his last trip to England.

His only regret is that he has the autographs of so few Americans in comparison with those of citizens of other countries. The fact is that he was so busy with the others that he more or less overlooked his own countrymen. He hopes, in the not distant future, to make a tour of America to secure the names of a list of distinguished citizens of America, which he has already compiled. The book will probably be willed to one of the museums of America, several already having asked that it be left in their custody.

I have gone through the Book of Gold and made a list of the most prominent persons whose names I found there, according to their profession. In this list are counted thirty-one signers of the Peace Treaty, twenty-eight members of the French Academy, eight Marshals, five presidents of Republics, twenty-one Prime Ministers, four Kings and a host of other compilations it would be interesting to make. It may interest the readers of THE RECORD. Here it is:

An Early Crusader for ΣAE

By John D. McCartney, III. Psi-Omega '02

FIFTY years of labor in the Vineyard of the Lord have not dulled the enthusiasm for Sigma Alpha Epsilon of Rev. Samuel Bailey McGlohon, Tenn. Ω, nor dimmed his recollection of the thrilling exploits in which he took part as a member of the Sewanee chapter which less than two years after its founding became the Grand Chapter and took over the management of the Fraternity's affairs.

This saintly man was rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church of Savannah, Ga., from 1907 until 1932 when he was retired. During the twenty-five years of his successful pastorate, he increased the list of communicants from 250 to 405, paid off a large debt and built a parish hall. Since his retirement he has acted as rector at large for the community and busied himself with good works. His generosity knows no bounds and though his own means are meager, he always finds a way to relieve distress wherever he finds it among white or black.

Tennessee Omega was established at the University of the South August 20, 1881, through the efforts of Rev. Wm. B. Walker, Ga. B '72, and was made the Grand Chapter by the Louisville Convention of August 14, 1883. Mr. McGlohon was initiated October 2, 1881, and was elected Eminent Grand Treasurer in August, 1884. He was the last man to hold this office as it went out of existence with the adoption of the Supreme Council system by the Nashville Convention of 1885 on the recommendation of a committee of which he was a member.

It was largely through his efforts that Tennessee Omega has the distinction of being the first ΣAE chapter to own its home. As he was working his way through the University, he had secured the contract for carrying the mail from the railroad station to the post office which paid $155 a year.

Rev. Samuel B. McGlohon, Tenn. Ω '86, Eminent Grand Treasurer 1884-85, Founder of Tennessee Zeta.

Becoming the beneficiary of a scholarship, he offered to turn the mail contract over to the chapter if the members would agree to share the work in turn and put the proceeds in the chapter house fund. The offer was accepted and the story of how the house was built is a familiar one in ΣAE and was recently reviewed in THE RECORD.

He established Tennessee Zeta at Southwestern, November 10, 1882, and as an officer of the Grand Chapter was instrumental in the revival of Tennessee Eta at Union University and Tennessee Lambda at Cumberland University. As the founder of Tennessee Zeta, he can be credited with the growth of ΣAE into a great national fraternity for it was that chapter which initiated the Bunting brothers who adopted the slogan, "Let the limits of our extension be the Nation's boundaries," and put it into effect, thus ending for all time the old question as to whether ΣAE would remain a purely Southern order.

Many of the pages of William C. Levere's "History of ΣAE" are adorned with accounts of incidents in which Mr. McGlohon took part. The one which he takes most pleasure in recounting himself is that of how, without violating the interfraternity rushing agreement, he outwitted the other fraternities by boarding an early morning freight train while scantily clad and thus reached a neighboring town in time to get the drop on two highly-desired rushees, one of them Benjamin F. Cheatham, who attained the rank of major general in the United States army and served as quartermaster general.

Among the men with whom Mr. McGlohon was associated while an active member of Tennessee Omega were General Edmund Kirby-Smith, Dr. Caskie Harrison, Bishop Wm. A. Guerry, Rev. James G. Glass and others whose names are by-words in ΣAE history. He remembers all the officers of the Grand Chapter but pays special tribute to the late John Augustus Harris of Mississippi who at one time was the Eminent Grand Correspondent. He says that Harris was an enthusiast and had the knack of communicating his zeal to the other chapters through his letters, doing an enormous amount of work which quickly bore fruit in renewed interest throughout the Fraternity.

While rector of a church at Tuscaloosa in 1905, Mr. McGlohon served as one of the governors of the Devotie Memorial Hall Association and helped in building the present home of Alabama Mu at the University of Alabama. Although in his seventy-eighth year, he still maintains an active interest in church and public affairs, is a trustee of the University of the South, a member of the Savannah Park and Tree Commission, and could ride rings around some present day rushing captains in telling the story of ΣAE in a captivating manner.

Upshur to be General of Marines

By Thos. McNider Simpson, Jr., Va. Omicron '07

Colonel William P. Upshur, U. S. Marine Corps, Va. Θ '02, Va. Σ '03, Va. \omicron '04, Designated for Promotion to Brigadier General.

COLONEL WILLIAM PETERKIN UPSHUR, Va. Θ '02, Va. \omicron '04, Va. Σ '05, will fill the next vacancy in the rank of brigadier general of the line in the United States Marine Corps. He has been designated for that promotion by a naval selection board and the selection has been approved by President Roosevelt.

And so he is to be General Upshur, the "Pete" Upshur who came, freshly graduated from the Virginia Military Institute, transferring from Virginia Theta and Virginia Sigma into the chapter at Virginia in 1902, the same year I entered it as an initiate. I found him a congenial soul, though I was heading straight into my profession of teaching and he was sacrificing a year in the law school to learn that his affections could not be transferred from a military to a legal career. I remember his decision to apply for commission in the Marine Corps. The Corps did not enjoy then the public prestige that it acquired in the next decade, but Pete Upshur knew his destiny. He has risen with his Corps.

Born in Richmond, October 28, 1881, he comes of good Virginia stock. His father, Dr. John Nottingham Upshur, who died in 1916 after more than fifty years in the practice of medicine in Richmond, had been a member of the corps of V.M.I. cadets who marched under Scott Shipp from the parade grounds at Lexington to fight at Newmarket, and had been badly wounded there. His mother was a daughter of William S. Peterkin and a first cousin of the Right Rev. George William Peterkin, a veteran of the armies of Lee and Jackson, the first bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of West Virginia, which he served with energy and efficiency for nearly forty years.

Colonel Upshur has served in every rank from second lieutenant to colonel, in most of the large navy yards of the United States, and on foreign stations in Cuba, Panama, the Philippines, China, Haiti, Santo Domingo, in sea service on both oceans and on the Asiatic station, and in the American Expeditionary Force in France.

He was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for "distinguished gallantry in action incident to the capture of Fort Dipitie, Haiti, October 23-24, 1915," while serving as captain in command of the 15th Company, 2nd Regiment, First Marine Brigade. During the World War he commanded, with the rank of major, the 1st Battalion, 13th Marines, A.E.F., in France.

Colonel Upshur is a graduate, not only of V.M.I., but of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; of the Naval War College, Newport, R.I.; and of the Army War College, Washington, D.C. For many years he served as instructor in and later as director of various Marine Corps schools at the Marine Barracks at Parris Island, South Carolina, and at Quantico, Virginia. At present he is attached to the office of the Chief of Naval Operations, War Plans Division, Navy Department, Washington, D.C.

Why Football Coaches Get Gray

By Ralph McGill, Sigma Chi

(Reproduced without permission from "Break O' Day," Mr. McGill's daily column in the sports department of The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, of February 4, 1937. Thanks to Mr. McGill and the dear old "Consti" from a former city editor of the same for this enlightening discussion of a problem which is of vital interest to the college fraternities and which must eventually receive attention at the hands of American educational institutions.—Editor.)

HE PAUSED here between trains. "Old Leatherstockings is about all in."

"Tough going, eh?"

"Tough? Listen. This business of getting football players interested in attending the school where you are coaching is more than tough.

"The whole thing is going to pile down around our ears one of these merry days. But meanwhile, competition is the life of trade."

"They want too much?"

"God help 'em. The high school football stars are being chased around and having this offer waved at 'em and this one and another one. They get swelled beans and only a kid with a strong mind is going to keep any sort of balance.

"The worst thing is their papas. I wonder what's become of the old-fashioned father who wanted to send his son through school and pay all the bills? And I wonder what's become of the kids who were willing to wait on tables and sweep out gyms and tend furnaces? In fact, I wonder if there are any schools asking that now."

"Where's the strongest competition?"

"Eastern schools are moving in. It's a laugh. One of the solemn eastern institutions, one of the Ivy league members, is giving lots of competition through their alumni. Three eastern schools and two in the middle west are doing some rather active player-scouting in Dixie land. I've run into two of them and had reports on the other."

He squinted at his wrist watch.

"I wanted to ask you about that boy in Atlanta, the one I wrote about."

"He's all set at another place."

Old Deerfoot Is Weary

"Yes, sir," he said, "Old Deerfoot is weary.

"You'd never guess the things we have to do. I ran into a proud papa up in Kentucky a few days ago. He sat around in front of his kid telling me how great the kid was and how the only game lost had been the fault of the coach.

"All he wanted me to do was guarantee his kid would play in the Rose Bowl game. Imagine that! All he wanted was a guarantee. I nearly laughed in his face. But I had to sit there and listen. He was all set. He has his plans made. He was going to the Rose Bowl game. He saw movie contracts—you should have met that papa. I felt sorry for the boy.

"At another place I had to take a chew.

The old man was leaning on the gate when I drove up. He lives about a mile out of this little town in Tennessee. The boy and his mother were downtown.

"Have a chew," said he, handing me the plug.

"I knew this one was going to be tough. I took a chew. I never have chewed. I was feeling a little pale around the ears when the boy and his mother got there. She got to asking me about the religious environment the boy would have there. I'm afraid we aren't going to get him. The preacher in their town is helping out another scout.

"These boys that talk about dying for dear old Alma Mater don't know what it is. Ask one of them if he has ever chewed tobacco for dear old Alma Mater.

"Twenty minutes before my train, isn't it? Gee, old Leatherstockings is tired."

Prayer Meeting and Relief

"Yes, sir," he said, "I've done a lot of things for the cause.

"The other night down in this little town I drove up to this boy's house about 7 o'clock. I figured they'd be through with dinner.

"They were. They were just starting for prayer meeting. They asked me to go. When we got there the preacher asked me to pray. It was a little church and it seems this boy's father was a deacon. They figured I was a worker if I came with him. I did it. I'd never taken public speaking in my day. But I got up there and gave them the best I had. I think I'll land that boy. We offered him a scholarship. He's a good guard.

"The worst thing, though, was over in Louisiana."

"Why don't you write the modern Leatherstocking Tales?"

"You write 'em. I live 'em."

"What happened in Louisiana?"

"There was a boy down there with a great reputation. I went down there. He was in a big town. Not a big city. A town.

"This was a new one. The boy's family was on relief. The big man in the town, every town has a big man, had got the family on. They deserved it. He also was giving the boy a suit or so and a little spending money. The boy looked all right.

"But getting him fixed up would involve bringing his whole family along and getting them on relief. After I left there I just sat on a bench in the bus station and held my head in my hands."

"Maybe you're too sensitive."

"I think I'm just weary."

"What was the daffiest adventure you had?"

"I thought for a long time it would be the papa who wanted me to guarantee his son would play in the Rose Bowl. I felt pretty sure about that.

"But now, I don't know. There was one noble old gentleman who had skads of money. His son can throw, kick and carry that football. He's sure to be a star."

"What about it?"

"This honorable gentleman said he had to have two scholarships—one for his son and one for his daughter."

"You told him where to go?"

"I did."

"Here comes your train. Where now?"

"There's a fullback up in North Carolina."

Local Action on Hell Week Recommended

EXPRESSING gratification at the decline in horseplay among fraternity chapters and commending the efforts of colleges and universities which have taken the lead in the abolition of hell week and other objectionable practices, the National Interfraternity Conference, at its annual session at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, November 27-28, 1936, adopted a resolution in which it said:

We recognize that the customs and traditions on any campus are determined by public opinion on that campus, and not by the national organizations of our fraternities; nor is any national fraternity able to prescribe for its own chapter action which can become effective only through agreement of all chapters on that campus supported by local public opinion. Whence it follows that the abolition of hell week rests primarily with the local authorities, and that the national fraternities can at best only lend their hearty coöperation to such efforts. It recognizes that some colleges and universities have obtained excellent results by making simple and easily understood rules for initiations, which they have then rigorously enforced.

The resolution further recommended that member fraternities give cordial support to all college efforts to abolish hell week and that they inculcate throughout their membership the opinions of the resolution to the end that the fraternities may thereby be dignified both in essence and in public estimation and may better play their part of coöperation with the college and in furthering their common purposes.

Other resolutions were adopted on the deaths of three men long active in affairs of the conference: James Anderson Hawes, ΔKE, an organizer and former executive committee member of the conference; George Deering Kimball, ΣAE, whose suggestions for a "Panhellenic Union" led to formation of the conference; James Duane Livingston, ΔΦ, an original member and past chairman of the conference.

For the first time in the history of the conference, the 108 undergraduate representatives of sixty-four interfraternity conferences from colleges throughout the United States met in joint session with the 263 educators and national fraternity leaders with whom they discussed and debated problems of mutual interest.

Speakers before the conference placed emphasis upon the partnership of the fraternity and the college in giving to youth idealism, experience in leadership, practice in self-government, social technique, and intellectual stimulus essential for the education of the well-rounded man. Forty-four deans and advisers of men were present, participating in the discussions as freely as official delegates, making of the conference an open forum discussion bringing all points of view upon the questions under discussion.

Notable addresses by Dr. Alvan E. Duerr, ΔTA, past chairman of the conference, Dr. Kenneth C. M. Sills, ΔKE, president of Bowdoin College, the Rev. Dr. Paul Hickok, grand chaplain of ΑΤΩ, and A. Blair Knapp, ΨΥ, of Syracuse University, formed the basis for effective discussion. One of the most interesting addresses delivered was that of Dr. John O. Moseley, Eminent Supreme Archon of ΣAE, before the fraternity secretaries which is reproduced in part in this issue of THE RECORD.

Officers elected were: H. Maurice Darling, ΔKE, New York attorney, a graduate of the University of Toronto, chairman; Norman Hackett, ΘΔX, vice chairman; Russell C. McFall, ΔX, secretary; John H. Marchmont, ΦΣΚ, treasurer; and Dean D. H. Gardner, ΒΘΠ, University of Akron, educational adviser.

Pledge Banquet of Missouri Beta, Washington University, at the Missouri Athletic Club, St. Louis, September 20, 1936.

The Three Founders of Georgia Beta

By Lauren Foreman, Eminent Supreme Recorder

THREE initiates of the Georgia Pi chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at the old Georgia Military Institute at Marietta, Rev. George Thomas Goetchius, Rev. James Ray McCleskey, and Samuel Spencer, all members of the Class of 1863, after serving with the Battalion of Georgia Cadets in the Army of the Confederate States, met again on the campus of the University of Georgia at Athens in the fall of 1865 and became the founders of Georgia Beta, a chapter which was to play an illustrious rôle in the Phoenix-like rise of ΣAE from the ashes of war and to which in very large measure the continued existence of the Fraternity is due.

Like others of that remarkable generation whose prep schools were the Confederate and Union armies, these young Georgians had no lack of initiative or courage. They did not know that Rho was still in existence at Columbian, now George Washington University; that Omicron had been revived at the University of Virginia; or of the movement under way which resulted in the establishment of Gamma at the University of Mississippi. They did know that the University of Georgia had a rule, forbidding secret societies, which had kept out all fraternities during the ante bellum period.

So far as they knew they were all that was left of their beloved order and they resolved to perpetuate it. Knowing of no authority to whom they could appeal for a charter, they acted on their own authority and set about selecting a group who would be the charter members of the new chapter. To meet the university rule, they adopted the happy expedient of inviting the chancellor of the University to become a member and when the ritual was explained to him, he promptly decided that the rule was not intended to apply to such an organization as ΣAE .

The students at the University were almost all former Confederate soldiers and from this gallant band it was easy to pick a group of men who gave every promise of eminence and who were ideal fraternity material. No time was lost in getting the chapter duly organized, the first meeting being held on the night of December 31, 1865. It immediately became a power on the campus of the University of Georgia and in ΣAE .

At the convention held in Athens in July, 1869, Beta was made the Grand Chapter, a position which it held until 1875, and during this crucial period which really decided the issue as to whether ΣAE was to live, the management of the affairs of the Fraternity was vested in its members. When the grand chapter system was discontinued at the Nashville Convention of 1885, Thomas S. Mell, Ga. B '78, was elected as the first Eminent Supreme Archon. Under the system then in vogue, he appointed the other members of the Supreme Council from his own chapter, so that Georgia Beta was again in effect the Grand Chapter and this continued until the Cincinnati Convention of 1890, when John G. Capers, S.C. A '86, succeeded Mell as E.S.A.

The founding of Georgia Beta was the first display of the genius for organization which was to make Samuel Spencer one of the great figures of the American railroad world. He was the organizer and first president of the Southern Railway Company of which he was the head from 1894 until his death in a railroad accident at Law-Yers, Va., November 29, 1906. His portrait, by Johannes Waller, is in the Levere Memorial Temple and a copy of it hangs in the Georgia Beta chapter house which was named "Samuel Spencer Hall" in his honor. After his graduation, he entered the University of Virginia where he affiliated with Virginia Omicron, so that he was a member of three chapters.

Rev. George T. Goetchius attained great prominence as a minister of the Southern Presbyterian Church and was moderator of its general assembly in 1897 when it celebrated the 250th anniversary of the Westminster assembly. He was the brother of William E. Goetchius, Ga. II '63 and of Henry R. Goetchius, Ga. B '71, and the father of Julian S. Goetchius, Ga. B '93. He died in Rome, Ga., August 31, 1900.

Rev. James Ray McCleskey entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which he served until his death in Washington, Ga., in November, 1908. He was the brother of Major Lucius L. McCleskey, Ga. B '68, and Henry S. McCleskey, Ga. B '83.

The character of the three founders and the men they selected as charter members of the new chapter has been reflected in their successors and in the record of the chapter they organized.

Alumni Activities Here and There

TAKING advantage of the meeting of the Supreme Council at Evanston, January 8-9, the Milwaukee Alumni Association staged a dinner on the evening of January 7 and invited Charles F. Collins, Eminent Supreme Deputy Archon, to be the guest of honor and principal speaker. Despite a raging blizzard, a good crowd turned out and an occasion of real fraternity fellowship was enjoyed by all present.

▪ While in Kansas City, Mo., November 17, 1936, on a tour of inspection as Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Judge Clyde I. Webster, Mich. I-B '99, was the guest of a group of ΣAE alumni at a lunch at which he forgot the cares of office and regaled his hearers with reminiscences of his days as an undergraduate and chapter leader at the University of Michigan.

▪ Alumni and actives living in the vicinity of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, gathered at dinner at the Roosevelt Hotel on January 28 with forty-four sitting around the table. Dr. Frederick W. Bailey, Iowa B '05, charter member of the chapter at the University of Iowa, told of its early struggles. Howard Tellier, Iowa Γ '36, who attended the 1935 Leadership School, found both alumni and actives interested in the details of the purposes and accomplishments of the school. There were also a number of other speeches and it was determined to make the Christmas get-together an annual affair.

▪ Headed by Carl F. Hilts, Mich. A '22, a group of alumni at Lansing, Mich., have undertaken to assist Michigan Gamma at Michigan State College in perfecting its initiation ceremonies and have produced remarkable results. The interested alumni have given both of their time and money; have helped the chapter buy a complete new set of robes and many items of equipment which add greatly to the beauty and solemnity of the ritual service. They have encouraged the chapter officers to memorize their parts and have assisted them in many ways. An initiation, held on Sunday, January 24, was witnessed by national and province officers who pronounced it one of the best they had ever seen.

▪ Movements are now under way to establish an alumni association at Utica, N.Y., and to reorganize the association at Worcester, Mass. The Akron, Ohio, association has held monthly dinners for sixteen years. These dinners are held at the Akron City Club at 6:30 P.M. on the last Wednesday of each month and visiting alumni are always welcome.

Filmdom's Legionnaire

YOUR host, Conrad Nagel, is as familiar to thousands of West Coast listeners to "California's Hour" over the air, as are the screen performances and the civic activities of Conrad Nagel, Calif. Γ '27. Not only on the screen does he play a prominent rôle. The Press, Convention Committees, and Chambers of Commerce have publicly declared that no city-wide event is complete without Conrad Nagel in some capacity.

Best known of all screenland's Legionnaires, Mr. Nagel last August presented the spectacular "Birth of the American Legion" at a colorful memorial ceremony held at night in the Hollywood Bowl at the opening of the State American Legion Convention.

A member of the Hollywood Post, Mr. Nagel described the principles and objectives of the Legion in opening the tableau. He then unveiled the figure of a Serbian soldier in full uniform, followed in succession by those of all the allies, in turn followed by a soldier, a sailor, and a marine of the A.E.F. The tableau, which was climaxed by the presentation of a Legionnaire in full dress, followed by representatives of associated organizations, attracted a crowd of almost 75,000 visitors.

oil tanks from the danger of lightning. His warnings fell on deaf ears until almost simultaneously, in different parts of the state, lightning caused two great and disastrous fires, costing the companies millions of dollars. The five major oil companies then advanced a fund to determine the most practicable means of providing protection, and Mr. Wolcott was assigned the job. In the million volt laboratory of the California Institute of Technology, small model tanks were blasted with bolts of artificially inspired lightning. A field laboratory was established at Carson Spur in the High Sierras to test the real lightning's effect against that of the laboratory. As a result of these experiments, oil storage reservoirs throughout the state of California are no longer subject to the blazing waste of fires caused by lightning.

Worked on His Birthday

▪ November 14, 1936, was celebrated in Texas as the sixty-seventh birthday of Dr. Harry Y. Benedict. Texas P '92, president of the University of Texas, but he took no notice of the day other than to attend to the work of his office as usual. Dr. Benedict, the first alumnus of Texas to serve as its president, has held the office since 1927. Previously he had served as tutor, instructor, professor of mathematics and astronomy, and dean.

Wolcott, Scientist and Inventor

By James E. Chapman, III. Psi-Omega '97

A PROCESS whereby sound motion pictures can be manufactured on paper strips and run through a special projector using reflected light, thereby materially reducing the cost of present equipment and widening the recreational, commercial, and social applications of the talking screen, is the invention of Edson Ray Wolcott, Wis. A '00.

Since 1928, Mr. Wolcott has been operating private laboratories in which physical, chemical, and industrial problems have been extensively investigated. His scientific career, which has eventuated in over 100 patents and numerous scientific and technical publications, began in the University of Wisconsin, from which he was graduated in 1900 with special honors in physics. Two additional years as assistant and fellow in physics at his alma mater and a year at the University of Berlin brought him to the Colorado School of Mines, where he organized a department of electrometallurgy, while at the same time doing special research for such commercial concerns as the Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

He spent five years in Chicago in the development of electric furnaces, acting as consulting engineer, and making investigations of industrial processes. During 1914-21, he was physicist and research engineer for the Western Precipitation Company of Los Angeles, directing the development of the electrical precipitation of dust and fume from smelter gases, as well as producing new products from petroleum. During the World War he was successful in developing a new and powerful explosive for use by the War Department.

In Texas in the 1920's he developed and sold to the Texas Company of Port Arthur, a process for refining petroleum. On returning from Texas, he called to the attention of several oil companies the risk they were taking by inadequately protecting their

Administered Oath in Bath

Federal Judge Arthur J. The judge told his clerk to bring the attorneys to the bath, got off the rubbing table, had the clerk open court, and the two attorneys were admitted with the usual legal formalities, the masseur being the only witness.

Temple Chair for Bob May

Robert S. May, Ohio Δ '06, gives the Delaware Chair Co. of Delaware, Ohio, whatever time he can spare from his duties as chapter adviser of Ohio Delta at Ohio Wesleyan University, so the members of that chapter decided that it would be quite appropriate for them to dedicate one of the chairs in the dining room of the Levere Memorial Temple to him as an evidence of their esteem and appreciation of his loyal service. He is looked upon as the father of ΣAE on the Wesleyan campus and is always busy with plans and ideas to enable the chapter to better its already favorable position.

In his decision, Judge Jones recited bank clearings, car loadings, U. S. THE SECRETARY OF COMMERCE
WASHINGTON

December 25, 1936

TO ALL CHAPTERS AND EVERY MEMBER OF S. A. E. FRATERNITY:

Among our opportunities at this season, none are more important than that suggested by the Christmas spirit to communicate with our friends. The primary objective of the college fraternity is to create good will, the spirit of cooperation and brotherhood. This involves the building of character, integrity and loyalty to friends and to duty in all lines of life. It looks to the building of men capable of handling the great responsibilities of leadership in a country dependent upon understanding and cooperation.

The fraternity which works to these ends will render a great service to humanity; those that forget these high objectives will not be useful and can not last. The broad and extensive development of the S. A. E. fraternity in these respects is a consolation and an encouragement to us all. Let us resolve to maintain these standards throughout 1937.

Fraternally,

DANIEL C. ROPER,
Secretary of Commerce.

Christmas Letter to All Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon from Hon. Daniel Calhoun Roper, S.C. Γ '88, Honorary Eminent Supreme Archon, Secretary of Commerce in the Cabinet of President Roosevelt.

Subsidized Athletes

WHY college fraternity chapters which are intelligently advised and sensibly operated have lost interest in the highly-touted high school football prospect who comes to college expecting that the fraternities will fall over themselves to offer him financial inducements in return for the doubtful honor of enrolling his name on the pledge list is clearly indicated in a jeremiad on the troubles of football coaches engaged in recruiting material for their teams by Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Atlanta Constitution, a member of ΣX and former Vanderbilt football star, reproduced elsewhere in this issue.

Being a sports editor, Brother McGill cannot be fairly accused of wishing to "overemphasize" the cultural and educational side of college life. In fact, the Carnegie Foundation's report, condemning overemphasis on football, is his pet peeve and he frankly advocates financial rewards for college athletes. Nevertheless, he has put his finger on something in this alleged interview with an unnamed mentor.

It is idle to hope that the loyalty and self-sacrifice, joy in service to others and love of culture which constitute the soul of fraternity membership can ever be developed in a boy who comes to college thinking only of how good a trade he can make for his athletic reputation. The only rushing argument of interest to him will be as to which house will make the greatest session on his room, board and dues and, if given a house job, he will have no intention of performing the duties assigned to him. It is also very doubtful whether he will show any real loyalty to the institution or even to the team for which he has been recruited but that, not being our headache, will be left to those whose it is.

Our only interest is that the members of ΣAE chapters shall not impose on their parents the added burden of paying the living expenses of these athletic adventurers as well as those of their own sons. Of course, this is not said in disparagement of the bona fide student who displays athletic ability or of the boy who is helping to pay his way through school by honestly performing the duties of a house job which has been given to him by reason of proven loyalty to his fraternity chapter and his college.

It is refreshing to see that the members of Chapters Collegiate have taken advanced ground on this question, sometimes in the face of powerful opposition. At some institutions chapters which refused to "carry" an allotted number of subsidized athletes have been pilloried for alleged lack of loyalty to their alma maters. Here is one problem which some fraternity chapters seem to have handled more intelligently than the institutions in which they are located and it is one which all chapters and institutions which participate in intercollegiate athletics must solve in the not very distant future.

Fathers and Sons

ONE of the greatest sources of strength to Sigma Alpha Epsilon is the large number of sons of ΣAE fathers being initiated into our chapters. Initiation of his son invariably gives the father a new birth of fraternity loyalty and enthusiasm and the chapter finds its work of pledge training very much easier when the freshman has been reared in an ΣAE atmosphere and comes to college with a knowledge of the Fraternity's history and traditions and respect for its purposes and policies already engrained into him. Of course, some sons are lost and almost invariably the Fraternity is the loser whether the cause be the indifference of the father, failure of the chapter to bid the son, or because the boy went to some school where there is no ΣAE chapter. Here is one point which is in the father's control. He cannot always be sure that the chapter and his son will be mutually attracted but, at least, he can see that his son and his Fraternity are given a fair break by sending the son to an institution which is the domicile of an ΣAE chapter, preferably the one by which he was initiated, even if he has to overrule a socially ambitious wife who has her mind set on some other school.

Loyalty At Adrian

DISTINGUISHING characteristic of the fiftieth anniversary celebration of Michigan Alpha at Adrian College, Adrian, Mich., January 22-23, 1937, was the unobtrusive but none the less evident spirit of loyalty shown by the alumni and active men of this historic chapter—loyalty to Sigma Alpha Epsilon, loyalty to Adrian College and loyalty to one another. As Daniel Webster said of Dartmouth, Adrian "is a little college but there are those who love it" and Michigan Alpha through its half century has been turning out men who love ΣAE .

Eighty-One Years Ago

AS THIS issue of THE RECORD is being read arrangements for celebrations of the eighty-first anniversary of the founding of ΣAE will be in the making. The attention of those in charge of Founders' Day programs is called to the remarks of Dr. John O. Moseley, Eminent Supreme Archon, in his address before the members of the College Fraternity Secretaries Association at New York which is printed on the opposite page and those following. Let it be hoped that no cheap or undignified form of entertainment will be provided for men gathered to pay tribute to the Founders and the ideals they have handed down to us.

Convention In August

WHEN planning for your summer vacation do not overlook the fact that the Eighty-First Anniversary National Convention of Sigma Alpha Epsilon will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 26-27-28, 1937, at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, Ill., half way between the city's business district and the Levere Memorial Temple, shrine and headquarters of ΣAE , in Evanston. The Edgewater Beach is one of the world's most attractive resort hotels and provides all facilities for an enjoyable vacation though located within the limits of a great city. This, combined with the opportunity to attend the business sessions of the Convention and the social affairs to be held in connection with it and to visit the Levere Memorial Temple, offers the ideal vacation setting for loyal ΣAEs and their Minervas.

Local Action On Hell Week

PASSAGE of a resolution by the National Interfraternity Conference at its annual session in November, 1936, declaring that the abolition of hell week and related objectionable practices rests primarily with local campus authorities should not be taken to mean that the Conference or its member fraternities are advocating local option. At the same time the Conference put the stamp of disapproval on all such practices and urged that member fraternities give cordial support to all college efforts to abolish them. The resolution simply recognizes a situation with which all fraternity administrative officers are familiar when it says that the customs in vogue on any particular campus can be controlled only by the authorities and the public opinion developed on that campus. The fraternities are all on record as against hell week but they have learned that it is difficult to enforce national pronouncements when they run counter to local customs which have become traditions and have not been condemned by the responsible authorities.

The College Fraternity on the Offensive

By Dr. John O. Moseley, Eminent Supreme Archon

IT IS the height of triteness to proclaim that one's own era presents special and unusual problems of the human race. Yet I do sincerely believe that the present college generation is the most interesting and critical period in the evolution of fraternities. For it is in this generation that fraternities have won their legislative battles on all fronts and as we sit here tonight there is not a single adverse law on the statute books of any state. This means that the arm of our educational system which we love and serve has for the first time in its history been given a clean bill of health from the political angle. It has won its legislative battles in every section and can now stand up in the muddy trenches and turn and fight enemies far more dangerous, more pervasive, and more destructive. We have yet to win our battles with educational authorities and with ourselves. What a wonderful thing it is for all of us that we are on the scene and active at the dramatic moment when fraternities are ready to go over the top and for the first time in their history take the offensive.

We have been very wise in fighting a defensive battle through all these past years and unbounded praise is due the leaders of the fraternity system who have so valiantly held the lines. They have followed the number one rule of political strategy told so touchingly in the biography of Disraeli by Maurois. Every night as the great prime minister climbed the stairs to his bedroom he stopped before the portrait of the American born Lord Lindhurst and reverently murmured, "Goodnight, my friend." This was in acknowledgment of Lord Lindhurst's teaching him the aforesaid number one rule of political strategy, "Never Defend." Edward Bok in his autobiography said "When I am under fire I never defend." With these principles the college fraternity system has been successful in the past for by a Fabian campaign of dogged resistance, its foes in political life have been silenced. These tactics, however, are no good for the present day. We have yet to prove the lasting worth of our organization in the eyes of college presidents, college men, parents, and even ourselves. This means that we must use the immortal words of Marshal Foch, who said, "My left is badly battered; my right is giving away; with my center I charge." Paraphrasing the above remark, we can say that in certain rich institutions we are losing out because of a new type of housing system, and in certain large cities we are giving ground because the soil no longer seems as fertile as before for the college fraternity, but in our center, in those schools where we may confidently expect the fraternity system to flower, we will charge, by making it so worthwhile, so invaluable, so vital in the intellectual and social lives of its members that it will remain a useful growing part of our civilization.

■ The first question then is "What of the future?" which may be answered only in the light of the past. With your permission I will read a few excerpts from a talk made at the Oklahoma University Interfraternity Smoker on Tuesday night, October 2, 1923. These remarks were based upon a knowledge of the Oxford system of small colleges and seemed far more radical and visionary at that time than they do now.

"Inevitably, a split must come in our great universities, such as has occurred in all the great European universities; there will be a breaking up of the large and complex inside life of our already over-grown and unwieldy student bodies into smaller units. In the Fraternity of the future the student will develop his athletic ability, will receive instruction, will cultivate his social qualities and abilities for friendship, will find there his old fashioned literary society, and will carry on in a more minute way, all those phases of college life we now call "student activity." I do not mean that our existing university enterprises will at once, or perhaps ever, be completely supplanted, but the new fraternities will take the place, in a vastly larger way, which the literary society had in the college lives of the old timers here. It will be a place to work instead of a place to loaf.

"With these remarks as a basis will you permit me to dream a dream of the future? I see upon the campuses of our greatest universities, strong, virile fraternities with memberships ranging from fifty to one hundred. Each will have its own home with such additional buildings as it can afford: a study hall, a library, a gymnasium; tennis courts and athletic field. Each fraternity will have its own paid tutor, or perhaps its staff of instructors whose function will be to assist the men in the preparation of their lessons and to train them to study and think. There will be enough fraternities upon the campus to take care of every student.

"Training in oratory, in office getting and serving, in student publications and in financial management will be given by the fraternities, from which those with larger talents will naturally gravitate into the larger sphere of university competition. Instead of continuing their present rôle of spectators, students in ever larger numbers will become participants in their interfraternity contests of basketball, track, tennis, baseball, and dozens of other good sports, as yet undeveloped. The graduate will be an alumnus of both his university and his fraternity, and to both in an unconflicting way, he will owe his loyalty and support. This is in essence the Oxford dual system."

Whether or not you agree with that dream of fifteen years ago, I feel that you must admit by comparing the average chapter of that time with the chapter of today that the college fraternity system is actually going somewhere. It is our business to note these trends and be prepared to adapt ourselves and our organizations to the needs of the new day. The most pronounced trend is toward integration with the college objectives. Most of the features of the chapter of the future which I have just described have to do with the real business of the college.

The secretary who doesn't continually in his thinking make the fraternity a part of the general educational system of this country is going to be so far out of step that he will find himself relegated to the file closers. To change the figure, fraternities are either barnacles or beams on the old ship and if they are barnacles they are going to be scraped off or in due time will slip off of their own accord when the ship gets a chance to rest a while in clear water.

■ May I then, made bold by your cordial invitation, talk with you in a rambling way a little while about your obligations and opportunities. The word "obligation" comes from the two Latin words "ligo," meaning to bind, and "ob," meaning on account of something. The noun "obligatio" is a legal Latin word and involves the whole doctrine of consideration in English Common Law. Therefore, your obligations are the things which you are bound to do because of a consideration. The word "opportunity" comes from the two Latin words "ad," meaning into, and "portus," meaning harbor or port. Therefore, your opportunities are those things which you may do to bring the good ship Fraternity into the port of its dreams.

▪ The very first obligation of a college fraternity secretary is to get an abiding vision of the place of the fraternity system in the scheme of education and indeed in our type of civilization. He must believe in the progress of man. He must be a true representative of our western civilization bequeathed to us by Greece, our spiritual godmother.

In full consciousness of the purpose and destiny of the college fraternity system in general, it then behooves the honest secretary to do everything in his power to strengthen the particular branch of it which he represents. Needless to say, if he is a real fraternity man and interested in the welfare of the fraternity system and spending his best efforts to bring his own organization a step or two nearer to its ultimate goal, he will do everything in his power to bring these things about without displaying any spirit of prejudice, partisanship, or narrow-mindedness.

I believe I can truthfully claim that I have fought always to strengthen my fraternity and never to weaken its rivals. Not once have I shed crocodile tears or let out war whoops of joy over the losing or getting of some slick haired boy rushed out of his socklets by every organization on the campus. I have tried hard always to get in for my chapter some gold with the tinsel, never interfering with their rushing plans, standing by ready to do the best I could with the material they gave me. I believe the greatest service possible of performance by the Interfraternity Conference is the combating of partisanship and provincialism in fraternity leadership and this requires more than talking about it once a year within the four walls of a great hotel.

▪ One constructive task of the fraternity secretary is to put your national officers to work and to direct their energies into proper channels. One besetting fault with fraternity leaders is that so often we have plenty of steam but too little power. The most important development in the steam engine was not the discovery of the power of steam but the application of it by means of the unbalanced wheel. Now we are like all mankind in that we are egocentric or eccentric. If we revolve around ourselves we never get anywhere and never move a burden. If we are too far off center we are likely to jump the track. Granting that most of the constructive work of the world is performed by gifted eccentric men, it is your opportunity by inspiration and encouragement to draw the self centered ones out of themselves and by a reasonable interpretation of fraternity values and a sane philosophy of life keep vital and valuable the services of those called to leadership in your fraternities.

▪ Another prime duty of the college secretary is to call to leadership young, active, purposeful men to take the places of those who are dropping out. There are too many one-man fraternities. Too often a hierarchy controls the destinies of a national organization and it is such a closed corporation and so jealous of its power that they do not provide for the succession. This is the fatal mistake of all government. It is a corollary of Gibbon's fatal secret of the Roman Empire—namely, that the praetorian guard discovered that it could elect an Emperor.

▪ The Chapter Advisers are the backbone of a college fraternity. They are the real sergeants of the order to whom the buck is ultimately passed. It is to these heroes on the firing line—alas! too often unnoticed and unsung—that the fraternity should look to fill places of leadership and responsibility.

I believe that the strengthening of this vital unit of fraternity administration should be given careful consideration by all our organizations. At our Leadership School in August, 1937, the theme study will be the Alumni Advisory System and at our next National Convention all Chapter Advisers of long and faithful service who can be persuaded to be there will be given full recognition and honor.

In any event, nature's best law is working overtime for them; for they are getting the most out of fraternity anyway because they are putting the most into it. They are the ones who have discovered that the only Fountain of Youth is Youth. They are the ones who see in fraternity a glorious adventure in corporate living and have made it their magnificent obsession.

▪ One of the most marked characteristics of a machine age is the tendency to glorify the commonplace and exalt the trivial. Education has suffered under such a régime and the fraternity is doomed to perish unless it is allowed to exist only for and because of its ideals and spiritual qualities and to become disassociated from all forms of sensual pleasures.

One obligation of all fraternity secretaries is to help place the Founders' Day banquets and other public functions of the fraternity on a higher plane. Their task is to get the leadership of these affairs out of the hands of the perpetual adolescents of the order. Too many of our most substantial brothers—leaders in their community and potential workers for our organization—have been alienated because they have been brought to these parties under the guise of loyalty to their fraternity and then given cheap stuff for entertainment. It is a poor fraternity party where the members cannot entertain themselves. The very men who would be most useful are the ones who do not care to take the time from their homes to attend a mediocre presentation of broken-down ham actors or a weak imitation of a burlesque show or musical comedy. These men are well able to afford to gratify their desires for such entertainment and they are in the habit of demanding the best. It is therefore an insult to their intelligence to offer them such tripe as a substitute for fraternal association.

The reason many fraternities are crying for leadership today is because the leadership in the past has too often gravitated into the hands of the self-seeking adventurer, promoter type. This man never did have any vision of fraternity and has been able to grasp the reins of leadership only because stronger men were either not looking or were disgusted by the persistent efforts of these self-servers. The only remedy is to drive these pagans from the temple and restore the direction of our Founders' Day banquet to those who have the vision of fraternity. The men of whom the fraternity is proud and on whom it counts will come to entertainments if they feel that they will be brought into contact with the greatest which the fraternity has to offer.

▪ Another question which is coming up constantly in our present day chapters and is a very perplexing one too, when viewed only in the light of the present day, is the matter of legacies. Are we going to take every man related by blood or by marriage to a member of a fraternity, or are we going to pledge part of them, or none at all? You may think that I am going far afield to borrow trouble for this paper, but if you have attended recently many midnight sessions of your chapters when the ballot box is being passed you will admit that this problem is growing every year in intensity in direct proportion to the increase in our memberships—a problem which is destined to cause much distressing friction between the active men and alumni. Personally, I have always advocated the pledging of blood relatives of members of my fraternity, even though the chances seemed remote that they will ever become good fraternity men or contribute anything to the active chapter. The mere act of taking them adds immeasurably to one of the fundamental sources of the strength of the fraternity—namely, sentiment. In the active chapters over which I have had some advisory supervision, I have appealed many times for these men, promising that I would help try to make fraternity men out of them. After all of the above has been said on the subject I consider the legacies the best available source of fraternity material and it is going to continue to be exploited more and more by all fraternities as the years go by.

The very consideration of this question brings up what I sincerely believe to be the next great advance in fraternity internal development—namely, that of control in the selection of men. Probably none of us here will be alive to see this step consummated, but some movement in this direction has already taken place and more will be made during the time of our service to the Greek letter cause. It can come, however, only on the day when fraternities have much more to offer than they offer at the present time. Fraternities offered most of us little more than social prestige and companionship. Nowadays they provide not only an outlet for all forms of gregariousness but also a splendid measure of home comforts, lodging, protection, and some training along athletic, intellectual and social lines. When the dream chapter just described to you comes into existence it will have been made possible only by the money of devoted alumni put into buildings and endowments and, in return for this money, at first partial control and finally complete control will be gained of this most vital matter in the life of any organization. The canker which is eating at the life of many chapters is an inbreeding process. Selection of members is too often made on the bases of propinquity, previous affiliation and certain qualities which glitter like gold and at the moment seem desirable but soon become tawdry under the incessant rubbing of chapter responsibility. Yes, even horses tend to breed downwards and so do men when not hedged in with code, creed, or other form of external restraint. Remember, I am not advocating anything at this time, I am just prophesying.

■ Another combination opportunity and duty of the fraternity secretary is to preserve and strengthen the ritualistic aspects of the college fraternity system. Ritualism has always been the distinguishing feature of college fraternities. College fraternities rest upon two broad foundations—gregariousness and idealism. The latter is super-imposed through the medium of a ritual upon the former which is a natural instinct of most members of the human race. Granting then that the first foundation is safe, the task of the organization which is to endure is to uphold its ideals of loyalty, integrity and brotherhood which someday, who knows, may become as instinctive in man as gregariousness.

■ At the risk of being misunderstood, I inject this personal narrative deliberately to drive home the point that if some men who might honestly consider themselves ill-fitted to a ritualistic type of fraternity service, yet sincerely believe that it is worth the sacrifice and effort, try, those who come subsequently to positions of leadership in fraternity will be encouraged and urged to specialize in this distinguishing and, I honestly believe, saving feature of our organization. Without it dormitories and college halls will ultimately drive us to the wall. With it fraternities will last as long as ritualism strengthens character, and character is the basis of friendship, and the bonds of friendship prevail. Dr. Henry Suzzallo said to the Interfraternity Conference, November 27, 1931—"It is a great deal easier to straighten out the finances of fraternities, to cut down their costs, and to manage their accounts than it is to deal with the spiritual and the intellectual elements of the situation. It is this side that I wish to stress."

■ It seems to me that since fellowship is one of the foundation stones of the college fraternity system that a prime duty of the college fraternity secretary is the promotion of fellowship in the truest and fullest sense of the word.

Fellowship comes from an Old Dutch sea word and means exactly what it says—that is, fellow shippers. The implication of the word is that men are going somewhere together. Too many fraternity chapters are composed of a jolly good bunch of fellows all right, but they not only do not know where they are going, they do not even know they are on their way. True fellowship implies a vision of the destination, and mutual confidence and joyous coöperation on the part of the shippers.

My whole theory of fellowship is built upon the Oxford system of man in association with his fellow man. It is essentially a give and take relationship. Everyone knows and admits that the social life among men in the various colleges is the distinguishing characteristic of the so-called Oxford training. It is some sort of relationship such as this that I covet for the men of the chapters of our fraternities. Goodness knows, the men of America need it badly enough. In their childhood they are tied to the apron strings of their mothers; in the public school system they are dominated by women teachers; during their college lives their spare time and much time that they cannot spare is taken up with afternoon dates, morning dates, dates to the library, dates to classes, dates between classes, and a lot of other dates that are not on the dean's approved list, and as soon as they get out of college and get a job they get married. They never have one brief period in their lives when they can seriously study their fellowman and learn to associate with him and to appreciate all the splendor and goodness that can be drawn out of a man's character. There is nothing finer in the world than a deep-rooted friendship between man and man, but it takes time, toil, and thought to establish it and it is done most effectively during the college years.

Let us strive to the end that we can motivate all of our chapters with the true ideals of fellowship. The silly high school type of chapter, loosely organized, carelessly existing, believing that the badge and a good time is all there is to fraternity, is the barnacle on the great ship in which we are all riding.

■ Now this matter of vision which is so important for all fellowshippers, and especially the navigating officers, is not some elusive Holy Grail to be sought for in bright and shining armor with emblazoned banners held high aloft and trumpets sounding the call; but like the vision of Sir Launfal has to do with the every day, close at home, personal acts of living which assure getting the most out of life. If a boy comes out of your chapters without having heard that it is bad form to swear in the presence of ladies, that a clean handkerchief is a good pocket accessory, that certain combinations of food and drink do not mix well, that daily exercise is healthful, that cheap literature like a shoddy suit of clothes not only lacks initial value but also brings later embarrassment, that you can get more exhilaration out of your dancing by gliding rather than toddling, that you ought not to pile tomato catsup on certain meats and that cigarettes between courses deaden the taste of food, certain advertisements to the contrary notwithstanding, then he has missed the follow through of corporate living. These superficial examples are chosen to suggest that before the young knight rides out into the cold hard world, the fraternity is his last chance to learn the subtle technique of even more portentous acts upon the successful performance of which depend the issues of happiness.

In trying to illustrate this necessity of form in successful living I have for many years past with college men used a figure from the tennis courts which like a golden thread appears in the texture of every sport. This principle called "follow through" must be mastered before real enjoyment in any game can be had. The employment of "follow through" differentiates a dub from a star not only in athletics but in the game of life. Follow through in sport and in life is best caught through fellowship for it can hardly be taught, defined, or demonstrated. The best description of it I can give in so small a space is to say that it means getting the maximum of force in a desired plane with a minimum of effort. In other words, with follow through we may make all our actions in sports and life rhythmic, graceful and effective; and without it we are clumsy, awkward and ineffective. A sad thing to me is to contemplate that the vast majority of tennis players, golfers and other sportsmen never in their lives get on to this principle so easy to master and always hovering near, for without it they will never know the thrill of a cleanly played shot. But a sadder thing is to see how many dub their shots in the great game of life for want of a little knowledge and mastery of this technique. May our chapters be a proving ground where all our members by man to man contact will learn this follow through of life.

▪ This leads me in conclusion to contend that the great opportunity of the fraternity for the present age is to create a new caste system for collegiate America. In all times a caste system has been essential to progress. Man may dream of equality and try to legislate an equal division of the spoils but the hard truth is that we take out of life in proportion to what we put into it. Men will not toil, will not learn the technique of life, will not play the game according to the rules unless their industry, honesty and perseverance are acknowledged and marked as superior by their fellow men. The old nobility of this land of ours has been a nobility of great wealth. This caste of bullion is in some disfavor just now and seems to be passing out into the discard just as former castes based on brawn, birth, brains, bullets and ballots have done and we may even be glimpsing a new social order whose noblemen draw their code from the Beatitudes.

Will this rule of the law of noblesse oblige ever come to the fraternities? Very decidedly I think so. Biology teaches us that a child in its mother's womb recapitulates the history of the human race. So in our fraternity chapters we have seen prevail every type of snobbishness and artificial standard of hero worship. But in this rapidly changing world of ours very brief has been the tenure of the bruiser and the boozier, the selfish and the self-elect, the big shots of athletics and campus politics and finally those who based their superiority on being good at nothing at all. One by one we have seen them demounted and debunked and their places in the chapters taken by a very earnest group of young men who are at the head of things because they are doing things and their acts are deeply tinged with the spirit of service and the fervent desire to make their fraternity a vehicle of self-improvement by conscious self discipline.

In the light of this interpretation of the American college fraternity system let us make the membership badge a mark of great superiority. Let it connote a new order of nobility whose ranks are open to all who will pay the price. Let the fraternity pin mark a man who seeks happiness as the ultimate aim of the temporal life, who knows and has acquiesced in the rules of the pursuit of it, and who by an actual living together with his fellow men in the close bonds of an organization vitalized by a high ideal, has demonstrated successful procedures and a sound technique in the great art of living happily and well. My prayer for all of us as fraternity workers is that before we pass from the stage of life we may see coming on the scene great numbers of these new aristocrats of life, many of whom from the badges they wear will be recognized as the inheritors of your interpretation and philosophy of the great adventure of corporate living called fraternity.

ELECTION to Φ BK in November, 1936, culminated an outstanding college career for Jack Fish, eminent archon of Pennsylvania Delta, who is often referred to as the "Number One" man on the Gettysburg College campus. Additional honor came to Jack in being one of three Gettysburg seniors who were selected prior to the general election to the Society in the spring.

Jack Fish represents the ideal college man, combining unusual athletic ability, exceptional intellectual capacity and splendid qualities of character and personality. In Gettysburg he is pursuing the difficult course in chemistry looking forward to a position in the industrial field. An almost straight "A" record in this subject and the others prescribed for the A.B. degree is the basis for the Φ BK award.

Fish is a varsity and star performer on three athletic teams at Gettysburg College. He plays end on the football team, forward on the basketball team and runs the mile in track. Two years ago, he was high scorer in the Eastern Pennsylvania basketball league. When he is graduated next June, he in all probability will own eight varsity "G's."

Jack's college activities are by no means confined to the athletic field. He is president of the Men's Student Jack Fish, Pa. Δ , Outstanding Student, Athlete and Leader at Gettysburg.

Government, student representative to the Athletic Council and chief proctor of the college. In recognition of his leadership, he has been awarded membership in Pen and Sword (activities fraternity), the Gettysburg Honor Society (scholarship, character, leadership, service), and Skeptical Chymists (course fraternity).

In his fraternity, Jack has always been a leader, serving as Herald, Deputy Archon and for the past two terms as Archon. Under his able rule, Pennsylvania Delta holds a very favorable position among Gettysburg's ten national fraternities.

Fraternity Men Led in Scholarship During 1935-36

FRATERNITY men led in scholarship in fifty-three per cent of the institutions from which reports were received and bettered their relative standing in sixty per cent of the institutions during the college year, 1935-36. Dr. Alvan E. Duerr, Δ T Δ , chairman of the scholarship committee of the National Interfraternity Conference, showed in a comprehensive survey, submitted to the Conference at its meeting in New York, November 27-28, 1936.

The survey covered statistics from 172 colleges and universities, with a combined enrollment of 250,000 of whom more than one-fourth are members of the 2,259 fraternity chapters operating on their campuses. This year's index for all fraternities in the country, local and national, is plus .799. Last year's was .276, and that of 1933-34 was .362.

"During the past five years," Dr. Duerr pointed out, "there has been a consistent gain throughout the country in the quality of college work as indicated by the all-men's average.

In 1932-33 there was a gain over the previous year in 79 per cent of the institutions; in 1933-34, in 50 per cent; in 1934-35, in 52 per cent; in 1935-36, in 49 per cent. This means that the fraternities have gained in spite of a constantly rising base.

"All fraternities were above the average of all men at Carnegie Tech, Miami, Mississippi State, and North Dakota State College. The forty-six fraternities at Michigan averaged plus 4.959, representing the most substantial improvement made in recent years at any of the larger institutions. Columbia fraternities have increased their plus margin, and at Lafayette they are now at plus 2.843 as compared with minus 8 five years ago. The sixteen fraternities at Tennessee average plus 10.448 without rules of compulsion. Thirty-two Iowa State fraternities average plus 7.543, and at Oregon State twenty-eight average plus 7.975. Colby fraternities are plus 2.449 after years of minus records, and at M.I.T. they have gained materially.

"There has been an appreciable loss in the North Central States, and a moderate loss west of the Mississippi, but this has been counteracted by substantial gains in New England, the Middle Atlantic States and the South.

"It is further interesting to note that while the all-men's average rose in 61 per cent of the institutions of New England it dropped in 60 per cent of the institutions of the West and in all the institutions on the Pacific Coast."

The index to a chapter's average, Dr. Duerr explains, is obtained according to the method of reducing averages to a common denominator adopted by the national association of college deans and registrars, except that for the sake of greater differentiation 100 intervals are taken instead of 10. The index thus represents approximately the percentage by which a given grade is above or below the all-men's average. By this method the all-men's average of an institution is represented by the arbitrary value of zero.

In the Football Hall of Fame

By Charles A. Price, Jr., Miss. Gamma '33

Phil Dickens, Tenn. K, University of Tennessee Football Star and All-Southern Conference Selection.

John Drake, Ind. B '37, Halfback at Purdue and Outstanding Player in the Big Ten Conference.

Sam Francis, Neb. A-II '37, Unanimous Choice for Fullback on 1936 All-American Football Team.

OF THE young ΣAEs who donned football togs in the fall of '36 and went forth to athletic battle on a hundred campuses, three have written their names and records deeply into the sport's long-time annals.

Of greatest credit to Sigma Alpha Epsilon and to his school is, of course, Harrison Sam Francis, Neb. A-II '37, of Hebron, Neb. Sam achieved the honor of being named fullback on probably every all-American team chosen for the 1936 season, including the selections of the All-American Board, Grantland Rice, Paramount News, Associated Press, International News Service, United Press, and the professional football coaches. Following on the heels of the above recognitions came the naming of Sam Francis to the All-American Hall of Fame.

He became a champion of the 1936 Olympiad by leading the American shot-putters and defeating all foreign competitors in post-Olympic games. Far from being solely athletic, Sam Francis has won honor at the University of Nebraska by fine scholastic standing, election to the student council, and membership in and the vice-presidency of the Innocents' Society, senior men's honorary.

At the University of Tennessee, William Phillip ("Phil") Dickens, Tenn. K '37, of Hartsville, Tenn., so distinguished himself as halfback in the great fall sport as to make every well-known All-Southeastern first team; certainly the sports sections of all newspapers gave him this rating. Phil Dickens was declared All-Southern. He earned Honorable Mention on many All-American line-ups and was placed on the N.E.A. Service All-American second team.

Consistently outstanding on Purdue University's football team, fullback John William Drake, Ind. B '37, of Chicago, Ill., also was voted its most valuable player at the conclusion of the 1936 season. Associated Press put him on its Big Ten choice of seconds and the Boilermaker won posts on most other All-Conference teams, besides receiving recognition on many mythical All-American elevens. The latest honor accorded John Drake was his selection for the All-East squad, coached by Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley, which met All-West opponents in the New Year's Charity game.

Ketchman Wins Governor's Award

Sam Henry Ketchman, Mich. Γ '38, (Right), Winner of Governor's Award, Being Congratulated by Albert J. Schoth, Traveling Secretary.

SAMUEL HENRY KETCHMAN, Mich. Γ '37, was the recipient of the "Most Valuable Player's Award," presented by the Governor of Michigan to the best all around man for the year on the football team of Michigan State College, at the close of the 1936 football season.

Ketchman was out for the squad for four years but did not make the first team until his senior year, being handicapped by light weight and up against stiff competition. His rigid training and clean living contributed largely to his final success in winning the award which is the goal for which all Michigan State first string players strive. He was practically an iron man, having played more minutes than any other member of the squad, and was lauded by his coaches and teammates for his courage, clean play and sportsmanship.

Sam is one of the most popular men on the Michigan State campus, a member of the Varsity club, and has served on many important committees during his college career. He is a student in the Physical Education Department and plans to teach after graduation.

"Violets" Ever Popular

▪ The Fraternity's best-loved song again was broadcast as a special radio feature when Kay Kyser's orchestra, engaged at present in Chicago, put on the "Elgin football review," Saturday evening, November 28, over the Columbia network. Departing for the first time from its regular programs of college and university songs, the orchestra turned instead to only three fraternity and sorority songs—"Violets," "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and "Theta Lips" (KAO). Richard G. Marvin, N.Y. M '26, is head of the radio department of J. Walter Thompson Company, which handles this Elgin account.

Sammy Kaye and his orchestra honored ΣΑΕ on Monday evening, February 8, with a dedicatory broadcast of "Violets" over the coast-to-coast Mutual Broadcasting System.

Birthday Party for Mississippi Theta

FRIDAY, March 12, will be the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the original Mississippi Theta at Mississippi State College and, although the chapter has had but ten years of active life in its two periods of existence, it has planned to celebrate its semi-centennial, combined with Founders' Day, with an elaborate program which will cover two days.

The celebration will open Friday night with an initiation, conducted by Dr. John O. Moseley, Eminent Supreme Archon, to be followed immediately by a stag banquet. Saturday will be devoted to the entertainment of visiting alumni and their wives. A unique feature of the program will be a chapter meeting at which the officers will all be members of the old sub rosa chapter which lived from 1887 to 1892. The concluding feature will be a dinner and dance Saturday evening.

All living alumni have been invited to take part in the celebration and a large attendance is expected.

Nine Trophies Won in Two Years

By Alford Orr, Tenn. Kappa '37

TENNESSEE KAPPA at the University of Tennessee has established a remarkable record for athletic supremacy in intramural competition with fifteen rivals during the past two years, having won permanent ownership of the coveted intramural trophy at the close of the 1933-34 season, a leg on the new intramural trophy in the spring of 1936 and seven cups for supremacy in individual sports since September, 1935.

Permanent possession of the big intramural trophy was earned in the spring of 1934 when Tennessee Kappa won it the third time out of five years of competition in eleven sports. Having won its first leg on the new intramural trophy in the spring of 1936, the chapter is bending every effort toward annexing a second leg in 1937, with favorable prospects for success.

Points toward a second leg were gained by winning the 1936-37 tennis, swimming and relay events, together with a high stand in golf, tagball and basketball. The three cups won in this year's competition supplement the four won in 1935-36 for swimming, relay, softball and cross-country, making the record of seven individual trophies and a leg on the big intramural trophy won in less than two college years.

Tennessee Kappa's supremacy in intramural sports has not been won at the expense of scholastic rank, social standing or participation in other activities. Since 1930 the University scholarship trophy has been won four times out of a possible ten, members of the chapter are prominent in journalism, military and other activities, and are active in all social affairs.

Athletic Trophies Won by Tennessee Kappa at the University of Tennessee: Right, Intramural Trophy, Held Permanently Since 1934; Left, New Intramural Trophy on Which First Leg Was Won in 1936; Center, Eight Individual Sports Trophies Won Since September, 1935.

Passing the Egg in Mississippi

By James Robertshaw, Miss. Theta '37

PRESENTATION of the "Golden Egg Trophy" after the Mississippi State-"Ole Miss" football classic of 1936 was virtually an Σ AE affair when, according to custom, the presidents of the two student bodies and heads of their respective schools met on the gridiron immediately after the game.

Paul B. Johnson, Jr., Miss. \Gamma '37, president of the student body at the University of Mississippi, accompanied by Dr. Alfred Benjamin Butts, Miss. \Theta '11, chancellor of the University, presented the trophy to Robert Stewart Caldwell, Miss. \Theta '37, president of the student body of Mississippi State College.

Not only were the participants in the presentation almost exclusively

Σ AEs but the custom was inaugurated on the suggestion of Benjamin F. Hilbun, Miss. \Theta '23, now registrar of Mississippi State. In order to put an end to the young riots that usually followed games between teams of the two state institutions, he proposed that a trophy be purchased jointly by the two student bodies and presented to the winner immediately after the game each year.

A committee met and purchased a regulation-size gold football, mounted on an ivory base, costing approximately $1,500. This trophy has been handed back and forth between the two student bodies for ten years and has done a great deal to bring about better feelings between the two colleges.

Presentation of the "Golden Egg" to Mississippi State College: Major R. I. Sasse, U.S.A., Coach of Mississippi State; Bob Caldwell, Miss. \Theta '37, President State Student Body; Dr. Alfred Benjamin Butts, Miss. \Theta '11, Chancellor of the University of Mississippi; Paul B. Johnson, Jr., Miss. \Gamma '37, President "Ole Miss" Student Body; President G. D. Humphreys, $\mathbf{K}\Sigma$, of Mississippi State College.

Guy Nunn Named Rhodes Scholar

Guy Nunn, Calif. E '37, of Occidental College, Selected as Rhodes Scholar from the Southwestern District of the United States.

GUY NUNN, Calif. E '37, senior at Occidental College and president of the student body, was selected as Rhodes Scholar, to represent the Southwestern District of the United States, on December 21, 1936, climaxing an outstanding college career as student, athlete, campus and fraternity leader.

A member of Φ BK, with one of the best scholastic records ever made at Occidental, Nunn has contributed largely to California Epsilon's success in holding the first place among the chapters of Σ AE in scholarship. He was captain of the Occidental football team in 1936 and has earned three varsity football letters. He has served California Epsilon as recorder and archon, was a delegate to the Province Kappa convention at Reno, Nev., in March, 1936, and has been a leader in chapter and college life.

Serial Numbers On Badges

Robert Barton Whitlow, Colo. \Delta '39, 45,201st Initiate of Σ AE, First Man to Receive Badge with Number Showing Order of Initiation.

ORDER of initiation into Sigma Alpha Epsilon is now shown by the number on the official badge issued to each initiate. Robert Barton Whitlow, Colo. \Delta '39, initiated October 4, 1936, was the 45,201st man to be inducted into Σ AE and the first man to have the number on his badge show the order of his initiation. The plan will be continued and hence forth each initiate's serial order in the Fraternity will be shown by the number on his badge.

When the official badge system was adopted by the St. Louis Convention of 1896 on the suggestion of Albert M. Austin, then Eminent Supreme Archon, several thousand men had already been initiated but no account was taken of this in numbering the badges. Badge No. 1 was issued to Major Frederick H. Sparrenberger, Medical Corps, U. S. Army, Retired, when he was initiated by Tennessee Omega at the University of the South (Sewanee) on August 17, 1897, as related in THE RECORD of March, 1936.

For many years the numbers on the badges were below the number of initiates but so many duplicate badges with new numbers were sold to alumni that eventually the badge numbers ran ahead of the initiates. After badge No. 45,200 had been issued, a new series, carrying the letter A, was adopted and used until Robert Whitlow became initiate No. 45,201. In the future, duplicate badges sold to alumni will either carry the original number or be in the A series.

A badge is issued to every initiate but remains the property of Σ AE.

Vital Statistics

Expansion—recent chapter grants or chapter installations have been: fraternities—ΑΕΠ, Drake University; ΑΚΠ, Franklin and Marshall College; ΣΧ, Hanover College.

Honorary—ΑΦΩ, Lehigh University; Mortar Board, Denison University.

Sororities—ΑΓΔ, Hunter College; ΔΖ, Florida Southern College; ΚΔ, Monmouth College; ΦΣΣ, University of Maryland.

Did You Know that one ΣΧ chapter draws on two educational institutions for its membership—Western Reserve University and Case Institute?

that ΦΚΣ recently granted a charter to a group of Phi Kaps that had been initiated by its University of North Carolina chapter?

that members of the Butler and Purdue chapters of ΑΧΑ actively assisted that fraternity's DePauw chapter last rush season when the latter was short-handed?

that Dr. Francis W. Shepardson, who has been national president of ΒΘΠ for 18 years, was re-elected for a three-year term at the recent Beta convention?

that no chapter of ΦΜ sorority may enter into a building contract without the approval of its National Council?

that the George Washington University chapter of ΚΣ recently pledged the grandson of one of its founders?

Boys Will Be Boys!

The rushing chairman of the Vanderbilt chapter of ΣΝ sent rushing letters and date cards last fall to Chester W. Cleveland, editor of The Magazine of ΣΧ. Apparently it was a serious rushing effort by the ΣΝ crowd.

While Mr. Cleveland thinks the ΣΝ rushing list was 20 years old, we like to think it indicates the unbounded optimism of youth—to think it possible to convert such an ardent disciple of ΣΧ.

Uncivilized Discipline

There are only two places in the civilized world where the paddle is used as an instrument to enforce discipline: the penitentiary and the fraternity chapter house. If state laws do not especially prohibit flogging in the public schools, the contempt of other teachers for one who cannot control his pupils except by whipping soon eradicates it. Intelligent parents rarely inflict physical punishment except in the case of small children; to use a paddle on a seventeen-year-old son would normally arouse resentment in the mind of the boy punished, his friends, and the adult acquaintances of the parents. For an employer or any other person in temporary charge of a youth to use a paddle as a method of punishment would, in most cases, mean court action.

The fraternity chapter that defends its paddling of pledges by claiming that as the only way it is able to control those pledges is confessing its own lack of ability to lead and to govern. The fraternity chapter that permits pledges to be paddled before the members is providing for those members a type of entertainment that is not only unworthy of college men, but is vicious in its effect upon those who paddle and those who get pleasure out of watching that paddling. In either case, it is violating all the idealism for which fraternity stands and is menacing the very existence of the fraternity system. Those who look at the fraternity from the outside must judge by what they see and hear. The chapter which uses a paddle is condemned in the judgment of such persons, and through that chapter all college fraternities are condemned.

The paddle must go, or the fraternity itself will go.—The Rattle of ΘΧ

E. C. Hayes, ΔΤΔ, is president of the Indiana University Faculty Club. The "man bites dog" angle to that is that Mr. Hayes is the only athletic coach ever to be so honored at that school. He is the track coach. Twice he has been Olympic coach, and has attained a well-deserved reputation as a conditioner of athletes.

Columbia Hails Greeks!

The 17 fraternities remaining at Columbia University pledged more men this fall than have affiliated with the Greeks there in any of the last 15 years and approximately 50 per cent of all members of the class are expected to join eventually, according to statements issued by the institution.

The chapters pledged 201 freshmen during the first two weeks as compared with 153 on the 1935 list. "The college did not keep an accurate account of those who joined fraternities until 1929," Nicholas McD. McKnight, associate dean of the college said, "and the totals this year are the greatest since that time. Over half of the freshman class will finally join fraternities. This is the largest proportion in 15 years, significant to those who three or four years ago thought that fraternities on urban campuses had fulfilled their period of usefulness."

The chapters remaining on the Columbia campus are those of ΦΚΨ, ΣΧ, ΨΥ, ΔΦ, ΔΥ, ΖΒΤ, ΒΕΡ, ΣΑΕ, ΒΘΠ, ΑΔΦ, ΑΦΔ, ΦΓΔ, ΣΝ, ΤΕΦ, ΔΧ, ΖΨ, and ΔΨ—The Cross and Crescent of ΑΧΑ

Positive Rushing

"What will a national fraternity do for me?" That is a question every new student asks himself. Sigma Nu Fraternity is not going to speak in the rôle of an individual organization. Instead it shall speak of benefits of national fraternities as a whole. "What does a national fraternity have to offer me? What are some of the needs it fulfills?" Space does not permit an elaboration, but to mention a few: A college fraternity develops personality, promotes mutual understanding, assists in orientation, furnishes a college home, crystallizes habits, induces cooperative living, offers advice and counsel, encourages scholarship, broadens outside interests, increases social poise, furthers socialization, provides business training, teaches parliamentary practice, overcomes provincialism, enlarges contacts, enhances loyalty, and fosters high ideals. This is what national fraternities as a whole have to offer the college man.

The Delta of ΣΝ

The above is an excerpt from a rushing bulletin used by one of ΣΝ's chapters, and reprinted in The Delta. Among other things, it enumerates many of the benefits you got for your money when you joined ΣΑΕ. Do you realize that? Read it over if you don't think so!

Advice To Gold-Diggers

The girl who remembers that college boys are on an allowance has another distinct advantage over her show-off sister. You may gold dig a man into spending most of his pennies on you for a big evening by assuming the attitude that you are accustomed to nothing but the best; however, his next date will probably be with the jolly little girl who thinks movies followed by a hamburger with onions are great fun.—The Angelos of ΚΔ

What Is Your Score?

Then somewhere I would have a card I would look at every day on which would be written:

1. Be friendly.
2. Be enthusiastic.
3. Be a good sport.
4. Wear a bright smile.
5. Maintain a cheerful disposition.
6. Guard your tongue.
7. Cultivate the ability to be by yourself.
8. Be sincere and loyal.
9. Keep your mind clean, healthy, open and tolerant.
10. Be a willing worker.

and I would mentally check myself to see if I could score ten for that day.—ΑΓΔ Quarterly

The Bross Award

Fifteen thousand dollars will be awarded the winner of "The Bross Award," according to the Delta Upsilon Quarterly. The prize is for a literary competition in which entries will be received until Sept. 1, 1939, and the award made Jan. 1, 1940. The subject:

"Although there is no limitation upon the theme of the work or upon the field which the writer may elect to explore, the essence of the work must, under the terms of the bequest, demonstrate the divine origin of the Christian scriptures and show further how science and revelation coincide and prove the existence, the providence of any or all of the attributes of the Christian deity." The founder stipulated that the contest should be open to "scientific men, the Christian philosophers, and historians of all nations."

L.S.U. Intramurals

Intramural athletics at Louisiana State University are described in an article by Thomas W. Fort, La. E '37, published in The Fraternity Month.

CHAPTER ETERNAL

HOWARD S. HOLMES

Michigan Iota-Beta '07

■ Howard Samuel Holmes, Mich. I-B '07, known as "Howdy" to generations of Michigan ΣAEs and the financial adviser and watchdog of his chapter since his graduation, was killed as the result of an accidental fall during an inspection tour of his flour mill at Chelsea, Mich. October 29, 1936. Succeeding his brother Ralph J. Holmes, '03, as house manager of Michigan Iota-Beta, he learned his job so well that he was unusually successful in training those who succeeded him. Despite his personal business obligations he always found time to keep a close watch on the finances of Michigan Iota-Beta and played a great part in enabling the chapter to acquire the splendid home it now occupies. At his funeral Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, Past E.S.A., paid an eloquent tribute to his memory on behalf of ΣAE and the Chelsea Masonic lodge.

He was chairman of the entertainment committee for the Chicago Convention of 1930 and was always active and interested in all ΣAE affairs.

JAMES STONE, JR.

■ James Stone, Jr., Miss. Γ '04, godfather of the chapter at the University of Mississippi who had stood by it for nearly forty years, as loyally in times of disaster as in days of prosperity, died suddenly from a heart attack at his hunting lodge in Panola County, Miss., December 25, 1936. His ΣAE badge was on his hunting shirt when he was found and was buried with him at Greenwood. At the request of his widow, the only flowers lowered into the grave with him were the violets sent by Mississippi Gamma. All of his pall-bearers were ΣAEs.

DR. GILBERT S. BOVARD

■ Dr. Gilbert Simpson Bovard, Calif. Γ '21, prominent physician of Sierra Madre, Calif., died December 12, 1936, after an illness of eight years. After attending the University of California from which he was graduated magna cum laude and where he was a member of ΦBK, he attended the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania where he was a member of the social medical fraternity, AMΠΩ, and the honorary medical fraternity, ΑΩΑ. He then transferred to Stanford University where he received his degree in medicine and did his internship in the Los Angeles County General Hospital.

■ Joshua Evans, III, W.C. P '38, senior at George Washington University and distinguished student, whose heroic fight against infantile paralysis had won the admiration of all who knew him, died in Hamlet, N.C., February 2, 1937, from pneumonia which set in following injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred while he was a member of a party en route to Aiken, S.C., to attend a house party. A helpless invalid for a year, he refused to give up his studies and was prepared to enter George Washington at eighteen. For six months he was a patient at Warm Springs where he became personally acquainted with President and Mrs. Roosevelt who were among those sending floral tributes for his funeral. Apparently fully recovered from the malady, he won the D.A.R. history prize as a sophomore; the Goddard prize given to the junior with the highest average in economics, business administration, foreign commerce and public accounting; and had an average above the requirements for Φ BK. The Washington Star of February 5 paid an unusual editorial tribute to the courage and beauty of his life.

He will be remembered by all who attended the Evanston Convention of 1930 for his efforts in behalf of the local petitioning for an Σ AE charter at the University of Louisville. While the Convention did not grant the charter, Prof. Ragsdale won the admiration and affection of all its members by his loyalty and good sportsmanship in his hour of defeat.
